

10/19/25

- Articles
 - Linguistic explains how to write memorable protest slogans
 - Has possible features for analysis: parallelism, literary devices, etc.
 - The rhetoric of protest signs blog post
 - general features that are used to create successful slogans
- Kaggle
 - Charlottesville tweet dataset 3/5
 - collection of tweets w/ "Charlottesville" or #Charlottesville
 - Black Lives Matter tweet dataset 1/5
 - tweets with keywords "#BLM"
- Harvard Dataverse
 - SM. News on Australian protests twitter data 3/5
 - impact of social media on protest involvement
 - SM. News + Geolocation protest size data 4/5
 - compares protest size estimates from newspapers (CCC), Twitter (hashtags, images), and phone records. (possible effectiveness metric)
 - Crowd Counting Consortium U.S. 4/5
 - 2017-present, political crowds reported in the United States. Has issues, location, size (to some extent), participant groups, news sources
 - Protest tweets sentiment score 4/5
 - positivity score and sentiment score for each protest tweet, data doesn't seem that clean, but if good, is directly applicable to the project.
 - Mass Mobilization Protest Data 3/5
 - protests against governments in all countries from 1990-2020. doesn't have associated slogan info, but has large general set of protests
 - Belarus protest data 2/5
 - All protests in Belarus from 2000-2019. Probably should be encompassed by MMPD above, also no slogans, nor protest titles.
- Research papers
 - Slogans and the construction of tourism contestation in Barcelona (Neil Hughes)
 - Directly related to slogans, linguistic analysis, specific case w/ Barcelona
 - Linguistic study of protest signs to 76ers arena in Philly Chinatown (Evelyn Lai)
 - specific case w/ chinatown, semantic, pragmatic analyses
 - Black Lives Matter slogan analyzed w/ pragmatic identity (LIU Boya, CHEN Min)
 - Kinda sus: only 30 slogans, "yellow people," but could have some insights
 - Power of slogans: protest writing in social movement research (Van de Velde)